

TARIFF BATTLE PROCEEDS.

the commerce of the United States alone was equal to that of the world. "And that," he said, "the power of the United States alone, pitted against the whole world, to restore to its use as primary money."

Mr. Lacey (Rep., Iowa), who spoke next in favor of the bill, referred to the declaration of the Democrats, who, in one breath, ask "Why doesn't your promised prosperity come right along?" and in the next breath say that there is no time in the world which to act on the tariff bill. "Mr. Chairman," said Mr. Lacey, "the situation is too serious for delay on our part. The tariff is the life of the nation, and the bill after it passes from the House, but we can demonstrate to the people the necessity for rapid action elsewhere."

Later Mr. Lacey was asked by Mr. Handy (Dem., Del.) if he thought the gold Democrats helped the Republicans gain their victory of last fall.

Mr. Lacey answered: "No, sir."

Mr. Handy: "Well, don't you think it's a pretty hard return to make for their aid to force upon them such a tariff as this?" (Democratic applause.)

Mr. Lacey: "Oh, well, Mr. Chairman, the gold Democrats are not nearly so much opposed to the protective tariff law as they were in 1892. They have had an opportunity in the past four years to see the benefits of one of their own (laughter and applause)."

To the inquiry of another member, Mr. Lacey he believed that more Democrats came to the Republican party last year upon the tariff question than upon the money question, although they were not always frank enough to own it.

Mr. Lacey in the remainder of his time defended Mr. Cleveland against the criticisms of Democrats for sending troops to Chicago to put down a strike, road riots of 1894, and argued that there was nothing upon which to base the charges against the Supreme Court for making its decision in the cotton cloth case, and that no basis whatever existed for the proposition that the defeat of that tax was responsible for the present deficit in revenue.

SOUTHERN PLEA FOR PROTECTION.

Mr. McLaurin (Dem., S. C.), a member of the Committee on Ways and Means, made a strong plea for protection to the cotton-planter of the South. The fact must be admitted, he said, that for the next four years, at least, the doctrine of protection would control our revenue system, and he proposed, therefore, that this protection should be reciprocal between all sections of the country. If there was to be protection in New-England, he demanded a similar right for the raw products of the South. If cotton cloth was to be protected, he wanted a protection for the cotton out of which the cloth was manufactured. The Democrats had denounced the doctrine of protection and declared that the protection of the North and East was robbing the remainder of the Nation. Believing this to be true, and knowing that in spite of all opposition the doctrine had continued in force for thirty years, he was not, he asked, was it just to the Southern people, not to demand fair play for that section? That is, demand equal privileges for all the products of the South to the end," he continued, "that if the tariff is robbery, our own section will cease to be its only victim. If protection really means higher prices, as we claim, let the people of the South realize that fact when they market their cotton, sugar, tobacco, rice, lumber."

Mr. McLaurin said that the hay, potato and corn crops of the North and West were protected so abundantly as to give to those farmers a monopoly of the home market, while in the matter of rice and sugar the importations largely exceeded the domestic product. This unequal percentage of importation proved, in his opinion, a robbery of the South. In a few years produce all the sugar consumed in this country. He demanded that the cotton-planter should not be plundered by the whole world, while the wheat-grower was protected against his near neighbor. He expressed his purpose of offering amendments placing a duty of ten and one-half cents per pound on all imported cotton and two cents per pound on rice as a matter of simple justice to the South.

While in the course of his speech he was contrasting the rate and extent of the growth of the wealth of the manufacturing States North and East, compared with that of the Southern States, Mr. Linney (Rep., N. C.) asked him why the people of the Southern States did not build factories and thus secure the advantages of the Eastern and Northern States, instead of "bussing" the more fortunate sections of the country.

The President of the Republicans and Populists in these States," answered Mr. McLaurin, "makes it impossible for the South to have the same improvement." (Laughter and applause.)

Mr. Linney later, when Mr. McLaurin said that he could not indorse the theory of free raw materials, asked if free raw materials had not been the pet theory of the Democracy?

It has been the pet theory," Mr. McLaurin answered, "of that portion of the Democracy represented by Grover Cleveland and John G. Carlisle, who have protested Democracy and brought it to its present condition." (Applause from Republicans and Democrats.)

MR. DOLLIVER'S WITTY SPEECH.

Mr. McLaurin was followed by Mr. Dolliver (Rep., Iowa), another member of the Committee on Ways and Means, who, speaking for the bill, injected some humorous and slightly features into the debate and was warmly applauded. Mr. Dolliver said he proposed to give the reasons why the approval of the American people, the farmers of the Mississippi valley, the sugar-growers of Louisiana, and the cotton-planter of the South, had fallen into line in support of that great example of protection, the tariff bill. He walked in the rain to the polls, weary with the miserable burdens of four years of Democratic misrule and bad legislation, and came to the House in the interest of the people of his State. He had been resurrected by their creator and appeared again at a farmers' picnic in New York, addressed by Mr. Bryan, and he hoped they would continue to appear for the next ten years, the most remarkable couple in the history of American politics.

Mr. Swanson (Dem., Va.), a member of the Ways and Means Committee, spoke against the bill. Mr. Cochran (Rep., Wash.), who introduced the bill, said that the industries of the country had ceased operations, not because prices of the products were so low as to afford no profit to the manufacturer, but because there was no money with which to buy the products, and that the underlying cause of the present depression was the demoralization of the currency. He attributed this to the "eminent Republican leader," Grover Cleveland, aided by his distinguished associate, John Sherman.

The committee then rose, and the Senate Joint resolution authorizing the House to proceed with the bill was passed. The House took a recess until 5 o'clock.

AT THE EVENING SESSION.

The first speech of the evening was that of Mr. Howard (Pop., Ala.). He said he would vote for the bill because he believed in the protection of the principle of the tariff. Mr. Adamson (Dem., Ga.) followed in opposition to the bill, speaking as "one of the 6,500,000 alleged Anarchists who voted last fall for honest money, honest taxation and honest government." He said that the proceedings of this Congress afforded much interest if little satisfaction. "The novel method of legislating entirely by machinery, and its results happily disappointing our expectations, will demand the insertion of a new plank in our next platform to denounce legislation by machinery, as well as government by injunction."

Mr. Sperry (Rep., Conn.) presented the petition of the president and faculty of Yale University, asking that books and philosophical instruments used in educational instruction be protected by tariff. He believed that no principle of protection was involved in the proposition. Mr. Sperry said he would move to amend the bill in accordance with the plea of the petitioners.

At 10:30 o'clock the committee rose and the House adjourned until to-morrow.

AGAINST THE TAX ON IDEAS.

SPREAD OF THE MOVEMENT IN THIS REGION.

The New-York Library Club has added its protest to the many that have been made since it first appeared that the Dingy Tariff bill proposed to add a tax on ideas. The meeting of the club was held yesterday afternoon at Columbia University in Hamilton Hall. Vice-President Arthur E. Bostwick presided at the meeting, which was largely attended. Among those present were Dr. John S. Bellings, director of the New-York Public Library; Librarian Baker, of Columbia; and his assistant, C. A. Nelson; Mr. Peoples, Librarian of the Mercantile Library; and Miss Winsor, of the Newark Public Library.

A special committee, consisting of Dr. J. G. Hillings, Mr. Bostwick, and others, reported that in its judgment the club should take all possible means to arouse a sentiment against those portions of the tariff bill that placed a tax upon the importation of books and instruments of science, and to this end resolutions were presented recounting the wrong that the proposed tax would do to the schools, colleges, institutions of learning, and to the culture of the entire country. The resolutions further recounted the fact that since 1812 these things have been admitted of duty with the exception of a few years. This resolution was unanimously adopted.

The committee prepared a shorter resolution to the same effect and it was decided to send copies of it to the libraries and institutions of learning in this city.

NAVAL ORDERS.

Washington, March 23.—The following changes have been ordered in the Naval Medical Corps: Surgeon T. C. Craig, placed on the retired list. Passed Assistant Surgeon R. M. Kennedy, detached from the Naval Hospital at Norfolk and ordered to that at Philadelphia, relieving Surgeon W. H. Dickson, transferred to the Texas, relieving Surgeon S. H. Dickson, transferred to the Massachusetts, relieving Surgeon C. A. Siegfried, ordered to the torpedo station at Newport.

CHANGE OF INAUGURAL DAY PROPOSED.

Washington, March 23 (Special).—Mr. Hoar brought forward in the Senate to-day the proposition advanced four years ago by Mr. Sherman and others to change the date of the Presidential inauguration from March 4 to April 30, and to extend the terms of the outgoing Senators and Representatives of 1897 so as to bridge over the resulting eight weeks' interval. To accomplish this sending eight weeks' interval, an amendment to the Constitution is required, and the task of altering the Constitution, even in so trivial a detail, is a stupendous enough to dismay the most ardent of political innovators. Hence the Department has been ever since desultory talk about the desirability of shifting the inaugural ceremony to the more seasonable date, but other more urgent problems have always come to the front to delay action until the hazards and discomforts of the usual inauguration blizzard have been forgotten. It is to

Found Paine's Celery Compound the Best of Remedies

For the Nervous Exhaustion Consequent Upon Her Arduous Work—The Remarkable Artiste Who Stands Pre-Eminently at the Head of Her Profession.

The news of Modjeska's recovery from the recent severe sickness that compelled her to leave the stage will be a source of congratulation to the whole world.

Modjeska, in a letter to Wells, Richardson & Company, says she has found (what thousands of people in every station of life have so often

There is the danger that in their eagerness to take a spring remedy a thoughtless person may carry home some bogus concoction prepared with only such a smattering of medical knowledge as can be picked up behind a counter.

Paine's celery compound is prepared in exact accordance with the prescription of Prof. Ed-

State Treasurer Addison B. Colvin of New York: John Graham, the foremost man in American athletics:

The wife of Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, the famous preacher and reformer, Mayor McShane of Montreal, Major General Birney, Judge Powers of Vermont, and a host more of prominent men and women, including no less than five U. S. congressmen, are among the thousands of grateful people who have recently sent to the proprietors of this wonderful remedy their expressions of its unequalled value—men and women who can well afford, and do not count, the highest medical advice in the country.

And then also from the people in the ordinary walks of life there come thousands of honest, straightforward, heartfelt letters, telling how Paine's celery compound has made them well.

Their testimony simply goes to show what New-England's most vigorous editor so aptly said in a letter telling of the benefit Paine's celery compound had been to a member of his family: It is not a sarsaparilla; it is not a mere tonic; it is not an ordinary nerve-tonic; it is as far beyond them all as the diamond is superior to cheap glass.

It makes people well. It is the one true specific recognized and prescribed to-day by eminent practitioners for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system. Prof. Phelps gave to his profession a positive cure for sleeplessness, liver complaint, neuritis, rheumatism, all nervous diseases and kidney troubles. For all such complaints Paine's celery compound has been found again and again, where everything else has failed.

When Modjeska in a letter published in Boston said "I have found Paine's celery compound the very best of all remedies for the nervous exhaustion consequent upon the arduous work of my profession," she voiced the experience of every tired-out, run-down, exhausted woman who ever went to this greatest of all spring remedies for relief.

No one ever yet failed to find strength and health returning who faithfully used nature's true remedy—Paine's celery compound.

a single session. I am confident that they will prove acceptable to our friends in all parts of the country.

In summing up the advantages to be derived from the passage of the bill, Judge Torrey said: "It will enable half a million of honest men to secure the millions of money now annually spent in needless expense of the Government, and it will diminish fraud, and benefit the whole people."

Some relief for the President.

A MARKED FALLING OFF IN THE RUSH OF CALLERS AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Washington, March 23 (Special).—To-day showed an even more marked falling off of callers at the White House than yesterday.

The only Congressional delegation which came in a body was that from Michigan. The general knowledge that the day was one of the semi-weekly Cabinet days kept away both the politicians and the stray visitors who merely wanted to pay their respects. Of the latter class, the most conspicuous representatives in to-day's list were Chief Justice Fuller and Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll.

Representative McGowan, of Maryland, and Representative Major James Allen, of Maryland, and other leaders of the Republican Association, and others, called early to urge the appointment of R. H. Warner, Jr., as Consul to Southampton. Mr. Warner is the Editor of "The Montgomery Press."

Colonel W. P. Sutton, filled with Secretary Porter further papers in support of his application for the place of Third Assistant Secretary of State. Other candidates talked for this place are Frank W. Partridge and Thomas C. Criddle. Mr. Partridge has had a great deal of experience in State Department work, having formerly held the post of Solicitor for that Department. Mr. Criddle is the chief of the Diplomatic Bureau of the State Department.

Representative Lattimer, of New-York, presented the papers of General George S. Barchelder, of Saratoga, who is one of the applicants for the Consul-Generalship in Egypt.

Senators Culom and Mason were accompanied to the White House to-day by Representative Marsh and Lewis Heller, of Illinois, the latter a candidate for the place of Third Assistant Secretary of State. They had already signed the application of J. M. Dickey, a personal friend of Representative O'Connell, for the place of Third Assistant Secretary of State. Representative Sherman, of New-York, was with the President for some time early in the day.

It is said that Representative Quigg has returned from New-York after a conference with Secretary Sherman, and that he will present a petition in favor of the appointment of Assembly Clerk Archie E. Baxter as Third Assistant Postmaster-General. Many of the New-York delegation found themselves in an embarrassing position when Mr. Baxter's appointment was presented to them for signature.

COMMENT ON THE ROAD RACING PROJECTS.

AN OPINION FROM PRESIDENT POTTER-TO-DAY'S BOARD OF TRADE MEETING—TIRE MAKERS.

CONFER-ROAD RULES FOR THE PARK.

The announcement made in these columns yesterday that there would be two great road races this year, instead of one, caused much comment in the circles in the course of the day. The proposed race to take place on Riverside Drive will meet with some opposition, but the wheelmen seem to think that they will be able to win over the idea.

The wheelmen say that the race could be held between 10 a. m. and noon on May 29, and that such an arrangement would not interfere with those who wished to use the drive. It is admitted that some of the people who live along the Riverside Drive will oppose the race, but it is said also that many more will favor it. Two of the Park Commissioners are openly in favor of having the cycle Derby on the Drive, and the others may not oppose the project.

The committee in charge of the race
